Allied Armor Rings Paris

By WES GALLAGHER

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Aug. 21 (AP) — U. S. armored columns speared on both sides of Paris today, and Allied flags were reported already flying in many parts of the historic capital as an underground army staged a fierce revolt in anticipation of early liberation.

American tanks established a firm bridgehead across the Seine at Mantes, 25 miles northwest of Paris, opening a path to the flying bomb coast 90 miles farther north.

Probing thrusts to the Seine in the vicinity of Corbeil, Melun and Fontainebleau, points 15, 25 and 35 miles southeast of Paris, put the Allies in a position to sweep completely around the city toward the World War battlefields of Reims, Soissons and the Marne.

Chateau Thierry on the Marne is 55 miles northeast of the 20-mile Allied front southeast of Paris. Soissons is 75 miles beyond Fontainebleau, Reims 85 miles.

Lt. Gen. Patton's Third Army vanguards were fighting in the vicinity of Versailles, 10 miles from the heart of Paris, where the peace was signed in the Hall of Mirrors in 1919.

(The German news agency DNB said American reconnaissance forces were in the suburbs of Paris itself.)

RAF Mosquitos and Mitchells raced up and down the Seine all last night, bombing and strafing Nazi river bank troop concentrations and barges struggling across the 200-yard water barrier which impedes the fleeing Germans.

The Nazis' four principal crossing at Elbeuf, Duclair, Caudebec and Quillebeuf were hammered in flare-lit tree-top level attacks as the record scourge from the skies today swept into itsfi fth day, despite handicapping weather.

A line of barges extending for three-fourths of a mile and reportedly salvaged from the abortive 1940 campaign to invade England was blasted near Quillebeuf. Amercian fighter bombers in daylight and evening attacks knocked out 20 others.

A simultaneous night-long attack on the belt west of the Seine through which the beaten Nazis are streaming from the Falaise trap, knocked out 136 vehicles and 16 tanks to bring the day's total for the RAF and the U. S. Army Air Force to more than 350 vehicles and nearly 100 tanks.

The original total barge force uopn which the Germans are depending for their miniature Dunkirk was estimated at 1200 to 1500. The Germans also have used hinged pontoon bridges but these are very susceptible to bombing.

U. S. Ninth Air Force fighter bombers and the Eighth Fighter Command reported the 10-day score up to Saturday night of German transport destroyed or damaged included 979 locomotives, 8500 railroad cars, 1253 road vehicles and 281 armored vehicles.

Invasion of the territory north of the Seine at Mantes threatened to compress further the 75-mile long, 50-mile deep corner below the river wher eelements of 18

WESTERN FRANCE—The lightning speed of Allied drives continues unabated today with American columns reported circling Paris to the south and east, while another column has moved across the Seine 40 miles northwest of Paris and may be on its way again to encircle the shattered German 7th army.

ALLIES CLOSE IN ON TOULON AFTER SWIFT TWO-MILE GAIN

By NOLAND NORGAARD

ROME, Aug. 21 (AP)—Hard-driving French troops virtually encircled Toulon, breaking through to within three miles of the naval base after a swift two-mile gain while American infantry, within 15 air-line miles of Marseille, fanned out today through the Durance Valley and headed for the Rhone against disorganized enemy resistance.

The Americans sped forward on both sides of the town of Pertuis, 21 miles north of Aix-en-Provence across the Durance river, and joined French patriots who had surrounded Nazi troops in the town.

Another of Maj. Gen. Patch's American columns charged on several miles to the northeast of Aix, key junction of seven highways 15 miles north of Marseille. Another unit was last reported in the outskirts of Aix and today possibly had completed its occupation.

(The German news agency Transocean said La Ciotat, on the south coast of France halfway between Marseille and Toulon, was "heavily shelled by an Allied invasion fleet and also bombed from the air." The agency speculated taht "this may indicate an Allied landing there.")

Joseph Dynan, Associated Press correspondent with French troops driving on Toulon, said French commandos, joined with patriot forces and former members of the French navy, were dominating the Faron area and that the Nazi garrison in Hyeres, 8½ miles East of Toulon, was virtually isolated.

Capture of Aix would open the gateway to Avignon and the Rhone valley — the logical route for a juncture with the Allied armies in Northern France.

One front dispatch said the Germans apparently had selected Aix for their first big defensive battle.

The count of German prisoners passed the 14,000 mark and more were coming in hourly.

Among new captives were Maj. Gen. Hans Schubert and his staff of six officers and 30 men. Schubert, chief of a district liaison staff, was described as an ardent Nazi.

SOUTHERN FRANCE—French troops of the Seventh Army were closing on (A) Toulon today while Yanks fought in the outskirts of Aix and virtually isolated (B) Marseille by plunging across the Durance river in a drive aimed at (C) Avignon. Maquis forces trapped Germans in Pertius . . . and Allies pushed on past Castellane.

B-29 Raiders Set Huge Fires on Jap Home Isle

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—B-29 bombers in the second wave of Sunday's double-strike at Japan reported today sighting the flames of destruction wrought by the daylight flight of Superfortresses while still a half-hour flight from industrial targets on Kyushu.

Four of the huge bombers were reported lost to enemy action in the co-ordinated day and night attacks by the 20th Air Force.

The important Yawata industrial section was the target of both flights.

Our planes shot down 15 enemy fighters, while 13 were probably destroyed and 12 damaged.

"Superfortresses of the 20th Bomber Command in Sunday night's attack again hit Japanese industrial targets in the Yawata area of the Japanese homeland island of Kyushu, following up the daylight attack.

"Crews of the B-29s on the night mission reported they could see fires from the previous attack burning 30 minutes before arriving over the target. Bombing results were reported in preliminary estimates as fair. Enemy opposition was rather light and anti-aircraft fire was moderate and inaccurate.

"Planes making the daylight attack met relatively strong fighter opposition and revised estimates of results show 15 enemy fighter planes destroyed, 13 probably destroyed and 12 damaged. From the co-ordinated day and night attacks four planes have been reported lost due to enemy action."

Forrestal Praises Gen. Ike's Tact

By HOWARD COWAN

Associated Press Correspondent Representing the combined American Press.

EISENHOWER'S HEADQUARTERS, Aug. 21 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal came away from a conference with Gen. Eisenhower today "tremendously impressed" with the spirit of co-operation which he said the supreme commander has fostered among the British and Amercans and their alleis.

"What he has done in the way of resolution between us and the British—and all our allies—is a great example for the rest of the world," Forrestal told a brief news conference.

The secretary came here after watching landings in southern France. He left this morning to visit Cherbourg.

Baltic Nazis Try To Save 200,000

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Aug. 21 (AP)—Soviet forces have smashed three Nazi divisions in the Sandomierz salient below Warsaw, while other Red Army units have yielded slightly before costly German attempts to rescue possibly 200,000 troops isolated on the Baltic front, a Russian communique announced today.

In the Warsaw sector, meanwhile, Russian troops have driven closer to Praga, suburb to the east of the city, and have captured some vital positions to the northeast, front dispatches said.

Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine army, thrusting up the west bank of the Vistula, liquidated the trapped Germans north of Sandomierz. "As the enemy refused to surrender, most of the encircled enemy troops were killed," the Russian war bulletin declared.

The victory freed Konev's forces for a possible drive either southwest on the rail fortress of Krakow, north toward Warsaw, or west toward German Silesia, which would snap the Polish capital's communication lines.

The slight Red Army reverse occurred in the Jelgava sector near the Gulf of Riga, where 144 German tanks and self-propelled guns were reported knocked out.

Allied Ships Shell Hitler's Last Force Pulling Out of Bayonne

IRUN, Spain, Aug. 21 (AP)—Three light Allied cruisers began shelling almost non-existent German defenses in the Bayonne area of southern France before dawn today in what appeared to be preliminaries of a landing on the Atlantic coast.

Spanish residents of this border town 18 miles to the south had a grandstand seat.

The cruisers drew only an occasional reply from two or three coastal batteries.

The Americans were said in border reports to have received a joyful welcome from the French in all villas they passed.

The warships ceased fire about 7:45 a. m. and disappeared but heavy explosions from the Bayonne region continued as the last remaining Germans apparently went on with a systematic destruction of fortifications.

BAYONNE—Reports from Irun, Spain, today told of a pre-dawn shelling of the Bayonne area by three light Allied cruisers. The area at the extreme south of France's Atlantic coastline is known to be weakly defended by the Nazis.

Order Midnight Gang Roundup

Boston police today were ordered into action against gangs congregating throughout the city, following another hoodlum attack.

Disclosed by Patrolman Mark Fay of the Warren ave. station, the attack resulted in an order to all police cars and special officers to pick up all gangs congregating after midnight on street corners.

The incident took place in the South End where a group of zoot suiters ganged up on a man weaving his way along Shawmut ave. and were fought off only because the intended victim proved not so intoxicated as he appeared.

Slashed in Silence Threat

Report of the attack, followed the murder of Ex-Marine John Prunty in the Fenway and the beating of a Merchant Marine seaman in the same vicinity, snapped police into action on a city-wide basis.

The victim made no report of the affair but an unidentified passerby told the story to Patrolman Fay when he came by in a cruiser. The gang were described as about 17 or 18 years old, all zoot suiters.

Fay's message to Lt. William Britt resulted in speedy action. By police radio and teletype, the order went out to every beat patrolman and special officer in cruisers to search the area.

Two young gangs today are in police hands, but only after the murder of the ex-Marine and the terrific beating given Merchant Mariner Harold Weiler, still a patient at Brighton Marine Hospital.

Five Roxbury youths face arraignment on Thursday charged with the murder of Prunty, and another group of youths appeared Saturday—along with an alleged girl confederate—in the Weiler beating and robbery.

The girl is 15-year-old Dorothy "Patsy" Scalli of South Worthington st., Roxbury, who police now have learned was mysteriously slashed by a mustached assailant June 26 near her home. Authorities also are holding another Roxbury girl, Marion Slattery, 15, of Smith st., and have a warrant for a third girl associate, known as "The Queen."

While police began their drive to make the streets safe again, city council members were ready to take action when they meet Sept. 11.

Various plans have been proposed, one of which would have auxiliary policemen try to clean up the worst sections.

Four in Jeep Steal Show From Army

By AUSTEN LAKE

ON THE ROAD TO PARIS—This may sound daring, but I assure you it was not.

Today in the first flush of early morning, three of us "captured" a French town, some hours before our infantry. Sounds impressive, doesn't it? But let me say that our American patrols had radioed Division H.Q. during the previous night that the German occupants had hightailed t'ell out of there late last evening.

There might be a little matter of road mines, but the town itself was already deloused of Heinies. So our advance party was Lou Azreal of the Baltimore News Post, a PRO lieutenant, the jeep jockey and myself.

The fact is that all we did was to cheat the expectant townspeople of their big, dramatic moment—the grand, triumphant entry of our forces into a town which had been four years under the Nazi yoke.

They had assembled in the town's square since daybreak with arms full of flowers and bottles of cider wine, and dressed in their best peasant black. For was it not military tradition that a conquering army always invested a town with a roll of war drums, a tiraloo of trumpets and a quick-step parade?

AUSTEN LAKE
"Captures" French Town

FOUR IN A JEEP

Did not a victory enter in full array and regimental pomp? But yes! Such are the age-old tableau of military Europe, which grandperes like to relate to their children. How Les Americains entered the town with ceremonial might—Ah, quel spectacle magnifique. But four dirty men in a jeep? Qu'est-ce qui cela?

Just four unshaven military tramps in a runty car? Nom d'un Nom! But they came crowding around, twittering like sparrows, smothering us in blossoms, or just standing transfixed with emotion. Feeling that the occasion called for something large, Azreal rose in the jeep and announced, "In the name of the Continental Congress and the Baltimore News-Post, I take this town." The people cheered.

Then the town's mayor, a mustachioed man with tricolor sash, gave an oration with such idioms as "notre braves comrades" and kissed us all consecutively, on both cheeks. It was not funny! There were tears in his eyes. And around about us the people wept! I say it was not funny! For this joyful moment was mixed with a deep sorrow.

JOIN ABBE'S FUNERAL

The parish abbe, a well loved man who presided over the tall spired church, had died by shrapnel yesterday. He had stood in front of the vicarage watching the pell mell exit of the Germans with a blissful smile. A stray shell had burst over the road and a splinter had penetrated his stomach. He was tres patriot, said Mons. Le Maire. Only the other night, he had said, "Ah, soon they will be here."

But Divine Providence had denied him this supreme thrill, and now he lay in a pine box beneath the wrecked roof of his church, and surrounded by lighted tapers. Would we Americans, first in the town, do the kind abbe the courtesy of joining his funeral procession? We removed our steel helmets and marched behind the acolytes, seven grave elders with sun-creased necks, and the profound piety of simple folk.

A crucifer bore a home-made cross of roses, plucked by parishioners from their dooryards. The townsfolk and hundreds of refugees from the adjoining country followed silently down the road to an ancient cemetery, "I am the Resurrection and the Life," intoned a priest, in French. The acolytes sang the responses with robust, untrained voices that were rich in sincerity.

The people bowed their heads unmindful of the streaming tears, and as they turned homeward, reached out silently with grave nods of their heads, and shook each of us by the hands.

It was not us they thanked. It was all America. "Come to my house," said the mayor. "It is time for dinner." But I had appointments in the hedgerows, and made my regrets, turning backward where New Englanders lay in the thickets.

There was a 30-mm gun pointing over a field of fire, acres that were sweet with blossoming buckwheat.

And around the gun sat Pvt. Joseph J. Bimber of 318 Fellsway West, Medford, an ammo carrier who totes 50 pounds of bullets, used to play football with Notre Dame's Joe McArdle (at St. John's Prep) and tells his wife of eight years, Ann (Paradisio) "I'm in the perfect pink."

And Pvt. Joseph T. Fitzsimmons of 19 California pk., Watertown (wife, former Ruth McDonnell's address), and who was on the Newton Fire Department, Engine 8, tells Lt. Chris Norton to "keep the home fires burning."

And Pvt. Myron P. Bleznick of 35 Market st., Cambridge, a machine gunner, who fetched a hand-colored photo of Myron, Jr., and a Father's Day card from wife Lillian (Wiligorski) which said, "To a wonderful daddy."

And on a hillside, over the next hedge, Pvt. Royal "Bus" Geno of 33 Stone st., Concord, N. H., a second scout who is up front for the first time, and who used to

Hull Opens Peace Talks By World Police Plea

By LEON PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (INS)—State Secretary Hull opened the world security conference today with a warning that the efforts of the delegates will fail unless they devise a peace organization backed by force. Addressing the delegates of the three great powers, Great Britain, the United States and Russia, Hull said:

"The nations of the world should maintain, according to their capacities, sufficient forces available for joint action when necessary to prevent breaches of the peace."

His words were spoken in what was formerly the music room of the private estate known as Dumbarton Oaks, before a limited audience of 42 delegates of the three nations, their clerical staffs and the press. The public was not admitted, and the press will be excluded after today.

Following Hull's remarks, the conference was addressed by Sir Alexander Cadogan, chairman of the British delegation, and by Ambassador Andrei Gromyko, chairman of the Soviet delegation.

Force was the theme of the day. Cadogan took up that theme when he said that after the last war there was a feeling that force was in itself an immoral thing. But the conviction prevails today, he said, "that it is only by the victorious remaining strong and united that peace can be preserved."

After the three powers assembled today have reached an agreement, followed by a shorter conference with the delegates of China, Hull said "the conclusions reached will be communicated to the governments of all the United Nations and of other peace-loving nations."

The next step would be to open the entire project to the public view.

U. S. Bombers Blast Big Oil Refineries

ROME, Aug. 21 (AP)—About 500 American bombers set fire to two oil refineries in Poland and one in Czechoslovakia yesterday and for the first time encountered only a few enemy fighters over heretofore fiercely defended regions.

Fortresses bombed the big I. G. Farben Industrie synthetic Oil and rubber factory at Oswiec, Poland, 30 miles west of Krakow, starting three great fires. The plant has a capacity of 62,500 tons of oil annually. Liberators caused fires and explosions in a Vocuum oil refinery at Czechowice, Poland, and a state oil refinery at Dubova, Czechoslovakia. Railyards at Szolnok, Hungary, and Rakoczifalva airdrome nearby also were bombed.

Robots Blasted By Rocket Guns

LONDON, Aug 21 (AP)—Britons, counting dozens of dead and injured after sharp weekend flying bomb attacks found cheer today in news that rocket guns were being used successfully against the robots.

British hope of relief from flying bombs was heightened by prospects that swift Allied advances in western France soon might drive the Nazis from some of their launching sites.

Cases reported in the week ended Aug. 5 numbered 932. In the following week there were 1015.

This brought the nationwide total since the start of the outbreak to nearly 4250 cases. The weekly record during the July increased from 290 in the first week to 738 in the last. The July total of 2300 cases was about 1000 more than in July, 1943, the highest of recent years.

Willkie Cool But Meets Dulles For Talk on Dewey Peace Aims

By LEO W. O'BRIEN

ALBANY, Aug. 21 (INS)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today awaited the outcome of a series of non-partisan conferences which he has set in motion, hopeful they will result in a plan for world peace which will endure, regardless of a changes in national political administration.

Declaring that the treaty of Versailles resulted only in the rebuilding of a "firetrap," the Republican presidential nominee declared that "This time we don't want to build another firetrap."

John F. Dulles, Dewey's foreign affairs aide, was to confer today with Wendell Willkie in New York. Willkie refused to say whether or not he would make any announcement on the talk. He accepted Dewey's invitation to confer with Dulles in chilly fashion.

Other parleys will take place in Washington, commencing tomorrow, when Dulles will place Gov. Dewey's views on peace before a group of Senators who hold varying opinions on the subject.

Another will occur in Washington on Wednesday, when Dulles meets Secretary of State Cordell Hull. That session will mark the first time that the official spokesmen for an incumbent administration and an opposition presidential candidate have sought face-to-face agreement on American policy in the foreign field.

Dulles left Albany with a detailed outline of what Gov. Dewey has in mind with respect to world peace. The Governor believes among other things that:

1—Germany's ability to wage war must be "sterilized" by neutralization of the Ruhr as an arms producer.

2—German and Jap industry must be prevented from turning again to production of military weapons.

4—Benefits of the Ruhr, greatest mass production area in Europe, must be made available to all continental nations.

4—America's part in the world of the future depends upon re-establishment of our moral leadership and regaining of our great internal domestic strength.

5—The American people must be kept fully informed of all negotiations leading up to the building of the peace, so this time there will be agreement and not "mere compromise."

Lynn Man Held In Slugging Case

Charged with assault with a dangerous weapon last Wednesday on a man who has not been seen since that night, George Cassali, 33, of Alley st., Lynn, pleaded not guilty in Lynn District Court today and was ordered held in $5000 by Judge Ralph W. Reeve, who continued the case to Sept. 7.

Cassali was alleged by Lt. William Kiniry of the Metropolitan Police to have struck James Rogan, 50, of St. Botolph st., Back Bay, on the head with a bottle during an argument at a party of General Electric Co. employes at Little Nahant beach.

Cassali then offered to take the unconscious man to a hospital and drove him away in his auto. Rogan, an inspector at the G. E. plant, has not been seen since.

Cassali claimed Rogan recovered consciousness during the ride and refused to go to a hospital. He said he drove him to his home and left him there.

Lt. Kiniry, who is continuing the investigation, said he planned to visit the Northern Mortuary today to view the bodies of two unidentified men found dead on Boston Common last Thursday.

9 Saved in Fire At Swampscott

Nine persons, five of them small children, were forced to flee from their homes today as fire swept a two-family dwelling in Beach ave., Swampscott, with damage estimated at $2500.

Two-year-old Stephen Wright, whose cries awakened his father, Harold B. Wright, was taken to Lynn Hospital for treatment of burns on face, hands and body.

Wright carried the boy from the house and also assisted his wife and their 10-yeeks-old son, Thomas, to safety.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. McDonald and their children, Donna 4; Robert, 3, and John, 21 months, also escaped.

Bread on Waters

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—The champion blood donor of Suffolk county, Samuel Wechsler, 36, donated his 19th pint of blood to the Manhattan Red Cross.

"Might need it myself now, any day," said Pvt. Wechsler, who was to leave today for New River, N. C., and combat assignment after finishing his boot training in the Marine Corps.

Plasma Supply Ebbs, Warning

Candidly admitting their concern over the alarming decrease in the number of blood donors, Boston Red Cross officials said today that recent good news from the battlefronts has been bad news to our national blood reservoir.

The giving of blood to Red Cross plasma banks — the most vital home front duty of American civilians—has dropped tremendously since word that the Nazis were on the run in France. Many blood volunteers here, they added, have failed to keep appointments.

"People don't realize that the most awful casualties are still to come," a spokesman declared. "As we dig deeper into Hitler's inner defenses, the need for blood may be enormous in the next crucial weeks."

As an example of the vital part blood plasma is playing in the war, the Red Cross here cited the recent plight of an American lost battalion, penned behind Nazi lines in France. The battalion sent a frantic message that plasma supplies were gone and men literally bleeding to death.

American guns shot shells packed with plasma to that stranded battalion, and when Yank infantrymen freed their comrades some days later, casualties were amazingly light.

"That is one of the reasons why the ranks of blood donors at the Boston center are filled with the names of returning servicemen," a member of the Metropolitan Red Cross Chapter said. "These young veterans know the magic of plasma."

Paris

Nazi divisions were fighting desperately to escape from a succession of pockets with the hope of executing a German Dunkirk across an almost bridgeless Seine.

Madly charging into the Allied bands of steel, the Germans made two violent efforts to break out of these traps, one last night and the other yesterday.

Using 70 tanks scraped up from the elements of five divisions, the Germans attacked from the westernmost pocket below Falaise in an all-night battle last night, with the result still obscure today.

Farther east, below Chambois, rocket-spiting Typhoons and Canadian troops yesterday broke up an attack by 30 tanks attempting to force a way out of the second trap.

Thirty- three tanks were reportee destroyed in the two suicide lunges.

Gunners poured fier over open sights into the pockets. Field guns, anti-tank guns and even anti-aircraft guns blasted shells into milling masses of Germans.

A British staff officer was quoted as saying of the night breakout attempt, "We do not know yet how many Germans got out, but we know they suffered severe losses."

More than 7500 trapped Germans were captured yesterday—2200 on the British front alone. Supreme headquarters officially announced capture of Argentan, southern edge of the now-closed escape gap of the original Normandy pocket.

On the left flank of the Allied offensive, which is forcing Von Kluge's forces back upon the Seine, British troops pushing along the coast toward Trouville and Le Havre drove deeper into Cabourg's outskirts. Cabourg is about 25 miles from the mouth of the Seine.

Farther inland, British troops of the Canadian first army thrust to within three miles of the communications hub of Lisieux.

The gigantic Allied drive to envelop Von Kluge's crushed forces was hemming the battered German columns into a 75-mile wide area between Vernon and Cabourg.

The fall of Paris appeared incidental to the much greater stakes from which Eisenhower was playing—complete destruction of the German Seventh army and its ill-fated reinforcements from the 15th army. One Allied officer said, "we're shaking the tree to uproot the German army, not primarily to get the fruit."

A dispatch from the Spanish border reported the Germans were fleeing north in efforts to get out of France, and it appeared the Germans were abandoning all of France south of Paris.

J. F. McCormick, Ex-Hub Man, Suicide

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 21 (AP)—James F. McCormick, 41, state highway department engineer, formerly of Jamaica Plain, Mass., was found dead in his office.

Deputy Police Chief J. Edward Silva reported today that McCormick, who had been in ill health, was a suicide from illuminating gas. A widow and two children survive.

Flash Baby Reports To Expectant Dads

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21 (AP)—In a clinically spotless anteroom at California Hospital the Rev. John L. Mixon fixed an apprehensive eye upon a loudspeaker and pressed an icebag firmly against his brow.

Suddenly the box blared:

"Mr. Mixon! Your wife has entered the delivery ward. Everything is just dandy. Normal in every way—relax, now—don't worry. Stand by for further announcement."

What a sense of humor!" commented another expectant father, J. J. Duschanek, Airlines mechanic.

"The doctor has a nice voice," Rev. Mr. Mixon said meekly.

"Mr. Duschanek!" called the box. "Your wife has entered delivery ward 2. She is smiling and cheerful. How are you doing, old man? Take it easy, now."

Duschanek sighed, lighted another cigarette. Rev. Mr. Mixon tried to look sympathetic. Then:

"Attention, Mr. Mixon!" Listen closely!"

The loudspeaker emitted a sharp smack, followed almost immediately by WAAAAH!!

"Congratulations, Mr. Mixon!" the box cried jubilantly. "You are the father of a fine boy! A football player if I ever saw one. Seven pounds."

Rev. Mr. Mixon grinned and twisted the icebag. "Wonderful, isn't it?" he said.

"Terrific," murmured Duschanek.

Rev. Mr. Mixon pulled himself together and started for the office of hospital supt. Ritz E. Heerman, who thought up this play-by-play idea for panicky papas. At the anteroom Mixon turned to Duschanek.

"Here," he said, proffering the icebag. "You may need this."

The box spoke again:

"Attention, Mr. Duschanek! Congratulations! A girl!"

Nazi Woman Soldier's Body Found After Tank Battle

ON THE BRITISH FRONT, Normandy, Aug. 21 (AP)—The first German "amazon" definitely identified as fighting with the Wehrmacht, apparently as a member of a tank crew, was found dead during the battle of the Normandy bulge. A British stretcher bear reported today:

"A woman soldier was discovered when British burial squads were going over the scene of the bitter tank battle in the Vire sector between Viessoix and Burcy.

"Her flaxen hair had rolled out of her steel helmet and fallen to her shoulders. She was in full German uniform and wore trousers, field boots and a small pack in battle order. On her jacket was a silver star, a type of badge not often seen on Germans, and the epaulets of her tunic had the braid of a corporal."

The stretcher bearer said he searched her clothes without finding any hint of her name or identity. A photograph of four German soldiers and the woman was found in her wallet. Lying dead near her was German soldier in a panzer uniform who was identified as the man standing beside her in the group photograph.

Toulouse Captured By Maquis Forces

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Algiers radio said today the Maquis Sunday captured Toulouse, sixth largest city of France.

Toulouse (pop: 213,200) is in southwest France, 60 miles north of the Spanish border. Frequent neutral reports have told of German withdrawals.

Another Algiers radio report said French forces of the interior were fighting German troops in the streets of threatened Marseille, second city of France, which lies close to American Seventh Army advance units.

French patriots now control one third of France comprising eight departments, says Gen. Joseph Koenig, commander of the French Forces of the Interior.

Reports through Spain said the Maquis controlled the entire Pyrenees region of southwestern France from the Atlantic to the Mediterranean. All German forces just north of the Spanish border have withdrawn northward and French patriots have appointed new civil administrators.

A dispatch from Irun, Spain, said the last German forces at Hendaye, just across the border in France, have pulled out and only regular French customs men guarded the frontier.

Navy Loosens Bars On Pacific War News

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—From now on you can expect more up-to-the-minute news of American naval operations in the Pacific.

Specially scheduled seaplane pick-ups of stories and photos from flagships, direct radio transmission from advanced Pacific bases to San Francisco and streamlined single censorship are part of the Navy's plans for faster, better news coverage of forward operations against the Japs.

Candy, Undies Tops For Overseas Yule

By MARGARET KERNODLE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Servicemen and women overseas have decided what they want for Christmas.

Soldiers in all theaters would like money orders and wallets, pipes and tobacco, razor blades and small shaving kits, pocket-sized books and photographs in waterproof folders, cigarettes and cigars, automatic pencils, stationery, games, cards, puzzles, hard candy, soap, dried fruit, vacuum-packed nuts and wrist watches, the Office of War Information reports.

Sailors everywhere want pocket-sized dictionaries, novels, mysteries, westerns add humor—but no war stories; sneakers for showers and moccasin-type bedroom slippers; pocket knives with attachments; Bibles, alarm clocks, playing cards, dice, poker chips, insect repellents, small snapshots, toilet kits and shaving kits, foot powder, sunglasses, fountain pens, writing pads, fruit cake, tinned luxury foods like olives, sardines, nuts; coat hangers, wash cloths, small homemade personal articles, steel mirrors and favorite tobacco mixtures.

Army nurses want washable brunch coats, clothes pins, buttons, needles, thread, mending equipment, lingerie, bobby pins, hairnets, elastic, cosmetics of all kinds, tinned delicacies, hard candies and nuts in tins, tinned biscuits, scented soaps, khaki neckties of wool-rayon.

Navy nurses would like Christmas decorations and birthday decorations for parties, starch, silk stockings of white, black or beige, underclothes which don't have to be ironed, play shoes, sneakers, boudoir slippers, bathing suits, records and sheet music, books, kerchiefs, sports equipment, magazine subscriptions.

WACS want sheer stockings first of all, also zippers and elastic girdles.

OWI offered the reminder that overseas gifts should be sent between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15 and marked "Christmas parcel."

Churchill Visits Yanks in Italy

ROME, Aug. 21 (INS)—Premier Churchill visited the American Fifth Army while he was in Italy. Reviewed the Italian situation with Gen. Clark and went over plans for future action.

Churchill reviewed the American 34th Infantry Division and in a speech declared the Allied forces would break Hitler's tyranny.

He shot a big American gun at two German gun positions north of Pisa.

Tank Smashes Jeep, Killing U. S. Reporter

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—The National Broadcasting Co. announced today one of its correspondents, Tom Treanor, has been killed on the road to Paris.

A colleague, John McVane, reported that Treanor was killed when a jeep in which he was riding was run over by an American tank.

Advices to supreme headquarters in London reported one other American correspondent had been killed and three wounded.

Tregaskis Writes His Second War Diary

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (INS)—A straight and unadorned account of the American soldier who overwhelmed his share of Sicily and helped fight the Nazi into the latter's present tight corner in Italy has been written by Richard Tregaskis, noted International News Service war correspondent.

The tall, soft-spoken Tregaskis, whose "Guadalcanal Diary" swept the country and led the best-seller lists for months, has titled his latest book "Invasion Diary."

In the Mediterranean theater of operations, previous to his present assignment with the Yanks in France, Tregaskis tells of his first-hand experiences in the first raid on Rome, with the fighting troops in Sicily and at Salerno, and in the taking of Naples.

He also graphically describes the bitter action in which he suffered a severe head wound near Cassino and, from personal experience, the physical and psychological reactions of our wounded.

"Then I got it," he says simply in telling of the shell which came over with his number as he was making his way back through the mountains from a forward post during heavy fighting.

"I heard the scream for something coming," he says, "and I must have dived to the rocks instinctively. Months of conditioning on many battlefields resolved themselves in that instantaneous, life-saving reflex."

A delicate brain operation was performed by a tired American Army surgeon under the crude conditions of a battlefield medical station, and Tregaskis started his long battle back to health and another war assignment.

With N. E. Boys Overseas

Gen. Ike Promises Munich Beer Party

By HUCK FINNEGAN

INFANTRY UNIT, Northern Ireland—There were two Bay State boys in the station hospital, and Lt. Anne L. Folan of Norwood suggested we visit them. "They were injured during a field problem," she said, "They're in Ward 24, right down here."

They weren't in Ward 24. The day was an ideal one, for a change, and they had gone for a walk. We caught up with them a half-mile down the road, just as they were stretching a blanket on the grass preparatory to taking a long-delayed sun bath. They had been hospitalized seven weeks

They were Sgt. Joseph F. Leonard, 50 Alley st., Lynn, and Sgt. Henry Jalicki, 26 Federal st., Greenfield. Leonard had lost his right leg, Jalicki had many bullet holes in his rugged frame.

"It was a regular routine maneuver," Leonard explained, as Miss Folan helped him to the grass. "We were attacking a fortified position. The mortar fire fell short. We were in its path."

Said Leonard: "I'd have felt better if it had happened in France. This was like getting hurt in practice before the big game."

Leonard would be 30 on July 1, he said. He was married and the father of a nine-year-old daughter, Carole. His wife (Margaret Lacey) was in Pittsfield. He had attended St. Mary's grade school, and Lynn English.

Jawicki was 26, just married, and childless. His wife, Kathleen, was a Brooklyn girl, and was staying with her mother for the duration. He had been a crack halfback on Turners Falls High School team.

He was attending the police academy in New York preparatory to joining the force when country called. He had a brother Adam, 29, a sergeant in England. Like Leonard he had been in the service since Pearl Harbor.

"Gen. Eisenhower promised us a big beer party in Munich, when he visited the division," said Jawicki. "He's a man of his word I want to be in on it."

Leonard and Jawicki were described by PFC John Hardy, 22, of 37 Springfield st., Somerville, as the "best non-coms in the outfit."

"Jawicki's endurance was phenomenal," said Hardy, who sold Boston Americans in a by-gone day. "I've seen him throw a man on his shoulders during a 25-mile hike, and keep up with the company. And when he was wounded, he said, 'Never mind me, I'm all right. Leonard's hurt badly.'

Lt. Anne L. Folan
Norwood

Sgt. Joseph F. Leonard
Lynn

And there he was full of holes and nobody knew it. He crawled to a hospital tent with that big grin of his, and they couldn't believe he was wounded, until they pulled off his shirt. "He's all 'guts'."

"Leonard," said Hardy, "had been a top-notch baseball and softball player, and one of the most popular men in the regiment.

"They must be very important," Miss Folan agreed, "because even the colonel comes out to visit them."

The Greater Boston boys in camp were delighted when Chaplain Alfred C. Longley brought te boys in town from the station hospital, and had a high mass of Thanksgiving sung for their recovery.

They started back to the hospital, Leonard on his crutches, Jawicki hiding the pain that Miss Folan said he must be suffering.

"Wouldn't it be nice if the government gave them some award," she commented. "After all, they were injured in action, and it wasn't their fault that it didn't happen in France."

Poles Drive On Adriatic Port

ROME, Aug. 21 (AP)—Polish forces on the Adriatic have advanced seven miles to within 12 miles of the Italian port of Pesaro, where eastern outposts of the Germans' transpeninsular Gothic line are reputed to begin.

The Germans pulled their defenses behind the Matauro river, Gen. Alexander's headquarters announced. In the advance, the Poles captured Cerasa.

West of Florence, the Germans shelled Eighth Army positions south of the Arno river. Conditions within Florence were reported "somewhat quieter." Food and other supplies poured in for the citizens.

Reds' New Prestige Seen Peril to U. S.

By KARL VON WIEGAND
Dean of American War Correspondents

We will let future historians puzzle over the riddle of statesmanship and policies of free Democratic countries whose aim was the destruction of all dictators and dictatorship forms of government.

Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, back from a six weeks' tour of Russia as guest of Marshal Stalin, reports that Red army victories have consolidated the totalitarian dictatorship and its planned Communist national economy. He found not the slightest desire or intention to change it.

Its Asiatic-Russian collective mind and thought challenges the thought, ideals, principles and free political, economic and social institutions of the individualistically minded Western Hemisphere.

A "war machine" is a totalitarian organism, an absolute dictatorship, but when the war ends the cogs of the machine return to individual life, freedom of thought and action.

Not so in Russia. The war machine becomes a peace machine, turned to construction and production. The regimentation remains.

Unemployment in the first post-war period is something of a nightmare to us. Not a word on that subject from Moscow!

There are no discussions in Moscow of a $35 week, or $25 or even $10 as unemployment compensation.

Great victories on the battlefields and the operation of Communist planned national economy, nowhere more glorified than in this country, has made of Moscow a magnetic lodestone of tremendous power of attraction to peoples in Europe and in Asia.

There are many signs that the continent of Europe may be lost to the Western World and to its political ideals economic institutions.

It will indeed be a pyrrhic victory to win the war, only to lose the European peoples to the political system and collectivism of Asiatic Soviet Russia.

Totalitarian Russia has, through this war and with our help, come onto the global stage as a world leader and challenges the world leadership aspired to by America.

It cannot happen here, many say!

But is it inconceivable that a people who threw overboard the traditions that governed our foreign relations for more than a hundred years, a people persuaded that minding our own business in the Western Hemisphere (falsely called isolationism) was a vice and not a national virtue, who cannot see danger in the precedent of a fourth term, might be persuaded one day that our American individualism and our free institutions belong to the horse and buggy age?

Stonewall Doyle Holds That Line

Fourteen Everett and Malden men faced Malden district court on gambling charges today, following a Sabbath raid at an Appleton st., Everett, dwelling where Police Sgt. William P. Doyle staged a strong-man exhibition.

When police broke down a front door, the 14 alleged dice players charged from a hallway, barred only by the husky sergeant. Twice they charged and twice were bowled back, although Sgt. Doyle was collecting quite an assortment of bruises.

Doyle then drew his gun and the mob marched back into the kitchen where brother officers aided in the arrests. Charles A. Rappucci, 30, occupant of the dwelling, was charged with maintaining a gambling nuisance and the other 13 with being present

Scrap Paper, Tin Deadline Is NOW

Boston's August salvage drive got under way in the first five wards of the city today as campaign officials issued special appeals to housewives to save every available tin can because of an immediate and vital need for this metal in the war effort.

In Boston and nearly a score of other communities this week the tin collections are being combined with the picking up of waste paper, which also is desperately needed in large quantities.

Massachusetts housewives have cleaned, flattened and donated 15,000 tons of used cans in the three years during which collections have been made. B. G. Waters, Jr., executive secretary of the Massachusetts Salvage Committee, revealed as he urged women to continue their splendid efforts.

Boston Salvage Director George C. Hyland added an appeal to families throughout the city to put out every possible scrap of waste paper and tin during the collections this week to prevent a seasonal drop in collections. He announced a $25 war bond will be awarded some householder whose name will be drawn from a list of scrap donors in each ward.

To swell the waste paper supply, two shiploads, salvaged by the Army on European battle fronts, arrived in Boston last week, Regional Salvage Mgr. John T. Kiley disclosed.

Tin and paper collections this week will include:

Boston, Wards 1 through 5 on Monday; Wards 6 through 10 on Tuesday; Wards 11 through 14 on Wednesday; Wards 15 through 18 on Thursday, and Wards 19 through 22 on Friday.

Brockton, Monday and Tuesday; Braintree, Tuesday; Canton, Monday; Everett, Friday; Hingham, Thursday; Holbrook, Monday and Tuesday; Hull, Tuesday; Medford, Monday through Friday; Melrose, today; Nahant, Monday; Newton, Tuesday; Quincy, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday; Randolph, Monday; Revere, Monday through Friday; Weston, Monday; Weymouth, Monday, and Winthrop, Tuesday.

A War Service Prize

COME what may in the way of rationing, Dorothy Phillips of Centerville is assured of a Christmas or Thanksgiving feast. She walked off with the 16-pound turkey, first prize at the fashionable benefit for Gertrude Lawrence's war Theater Wing, held at the Wianno Club this week-end.

The bird is safely stored in a a deep freeze awaiting the day Miss Phillips wants him to grace her festive board. Mrs. Charles Goodspeed, one of the hard working committee members for the benefit, won the appealing black and white cocker pup donated by Mrs. Frederick Schaefer, Jr. Another lucky winner was Mrs. Howard Fox (Elizabeth Wells), who is visiting her father, Mr. Channing Wells, at the club. Next time she goes to New York she can have a theater party with the four tickets to "Voice of the Turtle" donated by its star, Elliot Nugent, master of ceremonies at the benefit.

Greatly interested in the auction of a song composed by Gertrude Lawrence and dedicated to our boys on D-day was Mrs. James Mott Hallowell, who has helped Miss Lawrence stage these benefits in former years. The actress, who is overseas this summer, inaugurated these gala benefits three years ago.

Mrs. William Danforth, lovely in a pale pink silk printed with black figures, attended with her daughter, Mrs. Willard Stevenson, bride of an Army officer now in the Pacific. Mrs. David Rodd, of Concord, wife of an RCAF officer, is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Henry Laughlin, at Wianno, and attended the benefit with Beatrice Talbot. Louise Newell and her sister, Mrs. Phelps Holloway, Mrs. George Draper, Mrs. Walter Phillips and several other attractive younger members of the colony.

Mrs. Harry Wheeler, Mrs. Harry Hayward, Mrs. Andrew Chalmers Wilson, Mrs. John C. Moir, and Mrs. Wood Taylor were also in the throng.

ROMANCE is in the air at the Junior League with so many members joining the ranks of future Army or Navy brides. Latest to wear a sparkler is Alice Minot, whose engagement to Lt. Theodore Roberts Deppe of the Army Air Force is announced by her mother, Mrs. William Minot of Cambridge and Duxbury.

Alice graduated from Winsor, is a senior at Bryn Mawr and made her debut at The Country Club in '41. Her fiance, son of Mrs. Morris Deppe of Baraboo, Wisconsin, graduated from the U. of Wisconsin.

A Junior Leaguer whose heart belongs to the Navy is pretty Laura Darrin, who is to become the bride of Ensign Walter W. Dierks, USNR, of Kansas City. She is a Nurses' Aide and he is at present with the Atlantic Fleet Air Force.

The Swiss System

AN ENTHUSIASTIC and laudable sentiment is developing throughout the United States for a postwar system of universal military training.

There is a sensible and gratifying lack of partisanship in this movement.

The late Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Frank Knox, spoke repeatedly for it.

The great majority of the American people are giving approval, with the armed forces virtually unanimous in their approval.

The forward-looking American Legion, probably as representative of the American people as any national organization in existence and certainly completely representative of the veterans of our two greatest wars, is whole-heartedly promoting it.

National Commander Warren H. Atherton of the American Legion, in a message to the annual convention of the California Department, envisioned and endorsed a universal service act as "a guaranty that never again will America's sons have to go to war."

In the light of such influential sponsorship, and such widespread public approval, there seems to be a high probability and perhaps a definite assurance that some form of universal and compulsory military training will be adopted.

It therefore becomes increasingly important to decide WHAT system is to be adopted.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE surely do not want a PROFESSIONAL Army and military class—in the European sense.

They most surely do not want the United States to be a militarized nation, with war as its principal business—which inevitably would occur under a military overlordship.

What the American people truly and wisely want and need is a constructive and wholesome and DEMOCRATIC system of military training for all youth, which can be depended upon to maintain high physical, mental and moral standards and which can be relied upon to maintain an adequate and constant and competent reservoir of citizens prepared and trained for the defense of their country.

Fortunately, there IS such a system, long established and efficiently functioning in one of the real democracies of the world, as the Hearst newspapers have often noted in the past.

It is the successful and democratic SWISS SYSTEM.

With this system, the democracy of Switzerland has kept OUT of the two greatest wars in history which have raged all around her—while the democracy of the United States has been drawn into both of these wars, although remote from them.

The safety of Switzerland has unquestionably been in the preparedness of her people.

The peace of Switzerland has been the reward of her preparedness.

And yet Switzerland has never been a military nation.

The Swiss people have never been a militarized people.

This should be OUR national aim—to require of every able-bodied American that he be trained and proficient in the arts of national defense, and still be assured that he will be free to follow the peaceful occupation of his choice and devote the major part of his life to it.

Since the American people have become almost universally agreed upon the need for compulsory military training, let us be sure that we adopt a system that will PROTECT and PRESERVE our American democracy and not DESTROY IT.

Washington Scene . . By George Dixon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 — I will concede that President Roosevelt has a right to be irked, but I do not think he should have taken such a cruel, and utterly inhuman, revenge.

For months now, the President has been forced to submit to searching stares by every correspondent who gets within staring distance. They study him from all angles and either shake their heads pessimistically, or look relieved, depending largely on what preconceived ideas they brought to the meeting.

The purpose of these stares, needless to say, is to determine the state of the President's health. The way they have been acting you might think every reporter in Washington was a qualified sight diagnostician.

About the only thing they have refrained from doing is to ask the President to stick out his tongue and say "Ah!" In fact, several months ago, when F. D. R. returned from his vacation at Barney Baruch's, the correspondents scrutinized him so intently that a White House attache later observed:

WELL, I DO NOT wish to get in too badly with my fellow craftsmen, but I feel constrained to admit that the average Washington correspondent is not exactly what you might call a pillar of health.

Some have sufficient strength to walk from the National Press Building to the White House—a distance of four blocks—but few can make it both ways. There is a story, which, I believe to be apocryphal, that a correspondent made the round trip twice in one day afoot—but anyway, he was a young reporter who had been around here only a short time and had not yet become spavined.

There also have been reports that some are muscle-bound in one arm from bending it, but I am convinced these are mostly folk tales.

I do not have any comparative statistics, but I would hazard the offhand opinion that there are more pot-bellies per square foot among the Washington press corps than you would find in any group outside the immediate family of Jolly Trixie.

Well, anyway, the President held his first press conference since returning from his Pacific-Alaskan tour. As usual, the correspondents gave him a thorough inspection.

The President held himself in—not even hurling a toy elephant—until the moment was ripe. Then he went to town.

One of the reporters asked about compulsory military training after the war. The President said he thought training and exercise were wonderful things, even in peacetime.

Then he looked over the assemblage. He shook his head, in mock imitation of the routine he has been getting, and observed that he seemed to see many before him who could do with a little exercise.

He said he did not think some of those present could lift a spade. They couldn't dig a ditch, he added — not even a little, shallow ditch.

WELL, YOU should have seen the shocked kissers on my brethren! A number tried to suck in their stomachs, with about as much success as Mr. Goodycar trying to hide his blimp in a telephone booth.

After the conference ended, little mass meetings of indignation gathered in the lobby. Particularly incensed was Mr. Bert Andrews, of the New York Herald-Tribune, because it seems F. D. R. had taken Mr. Andrews aside and confided that the implications of pot-bellyism were directed mainly at him.

It developed that Mr. Andrews considers himself a fine figure of a man. He said he told the President he was willing to pit his figure any time against that of Steve Early, the Presidential secretary.

He gave no reason, however, for thus dragging in the unoffending Mr. Early.

Another voicing wrath was Mr. Roscoe Drummond, of the Christian Science Monitor, who is known hereabouts as "Man Mountain Drummond," he being slightly larger than Jockey Arcaro. Mr. Drummond announced he was just leaving for North Carolina, where he intends to ride a horse up and down mountains all day.

The British delegation, including Mr. Dick Haestier, of Lord Beaverbrook's London Daily Express, and Mr. Robert Waithman, of the London News-Chronicle, went away muttering something about straining international relations. They implied they might request the British Embassy to demand an apology from the President in writing.

"I am very fit," said Mr. Waithman. "I have been up in Connecticut for weeks piloting a tractor. I might say that it is bloody hard work."

HAVE BEEN wondering if that type of train the French call "auto dynamique" is still operating on the Riviera. This is a railroad car propelled by an automobile engine. It can attain 100 miles an hour. In 1938, I rode on one of these auto dynamiques from Cannes to Monte Carlo. It was a marvelous trip, marred only by the fact I was surrounded by garlic enthusiasts who were bound for Nice. The man who originates a odorless garlic will do much to make life more pleasant and bearable for tourists in Europe, in the postwar period.

BRILLIANT IDEA: There are six times more vitamins C in black currants than in any other fruit. So states an expert on the subject. I'll remember that. On my ranch—when I get a ranch—I will grow black currants, have them made into jam and retail it under the slogan, "Six Times More Vitamins C." In no time at all I shall be a millionaire and be able to buy one of those machines that plays 26 records without changing. I will also be able to pick up checks at night clubs without wincing. Won't that be wonderful?

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q. You continually refer to "the beautiful city of Brooklyn." Have you forgotten Brooklyn is merely a borough of the City of New York? A. Technically you are right. But for many years Brooklyn was a city and all loyal Brooklynites continue to refer to it as such. Q. Is there actually a club for tall women in Manhattan? A. None that I know of. In Pittsburgh and Los Angeles there are highly successful clubs for tall people. The Pittsburgh club is called the Sky Dusters. I forget the name of the one in Los Angeles.

SIDELIGHTS: Among the many statues in Paris and environs our boys will find interesting is that of Etienne Marcel. It was Monsieur Marcel who invented the income tax . . . The shortest street in Paris is the Rue Pirouette. There is only one house on it . . . There are no streetcars in the French capital. This mode of transportation was discontinued in 1930. . . . Paris has more than 4000 streets and not a numbered street in town. A Parisian taxi driver really has to have a memory . . . It is said by those who should know that the reason many Frenchwomen look so well-dressed is because their clothes fit them properly. It has also been stated that not one American woman in a thousand wears clothes that really fit.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Something to keep in mind while reading the war news is that 85 per cent of the population of France live in small towns or the country. Paris has a population of 2,891,020. Marseille is the second largest city with 800,881 residents. Third is Lyons with 579,673. Fourth, Bordeaux with 262,990 and fifth, Nice with 219,540 . . . Did you ever eat baked sea bass au gratin served on a sea shell? Neither have I. But San Franciscans speak highly of this menu item, which is featured at several restaurants in their city . . . You can't call yourself a real film fan unless you can answer the following query quick as a flash: George M. Cohan lived to see his life story in film. How many living persons of today have had their life stories used as the basis of moving pictures?

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 21—"Citizen Tom Paine" was bought by Frank Tuttle a long time ago, but he let his option lapse and it goes to Walter Wagner. Walter has bought it from the author, Howard Fast, and plans to make a story of the Revolution with all the famous characters.

He will not go into Paine's religious beliefs nor his tendency toward atheism. Rather, will he make a real saga of the Revolutionary period with four principal characters, Washington, Jefferson, Franklin and Paine. Well known actors will be chosen to play these four men. We haven't had a good story of the American Revolution in a long time and Walter plans to spend a considerable amount in making an authentic story.

FRANK BORZAGE, who has the reputation of making good pictures and is one of the sweetest persons in the world, has signed a long-term contract with RKO. Frank is the type that actors, writers—in fact, everyone—likes to work with because he always listens to the other person's opinion, which is important in good picture making. His first picture will be "The Spanish Main," a technicolor special which introduces Steve Ames as an associate producer, and Maureen O'Hara, Paul Henreid and Walter Slezak.

HUMPHREY BOGART has wired Jack Warner he is ready to return to work. Up to Saturday Bogie had received no reply, so he is continuing his vacation on his boat. But it's my guess it won't be long before he gets a call from his boss. What Bogie is eager to do is an idea Howard Hawks has whereby he plays a detective in a yarn on the order of "The Maltese Falcon." "We have made 'To Have and to Have Not' together and I think Howard is tops as a director," said Bogie. As I understand it, the only fly in the ointment is Hawks hasn't signed with Warners for another picture.

JENNIFER JONES didn't have to shinny down the rainpipe a La Garbo, when a burglar called at her house two nights in succession, but she was plenty scared. She heard a noise in the garden and ran downstairs as her maid, white as a sheet, came out of her room and said she had seen a man looking in the window. They called Charles Trezona, Jennifer's business manager, who summoned the police. The next night the maid called Jennifer on the house phone to say a man was trying the door, and again the police arrived as he was leaving. This is the third attempt to burglarize Jennifer's Bel Air house.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: You may take my word for it that the next engagement announced in Hollywood will be that of Anne Baxter and John Hodiak. Everybody on the set of "Sunday Dinner for a Soldier" talks about how crazy John is about Anne. I expected to be greeted by a bombardment of denials when I visited her. But instead she said, "I wish it were true he likes me as much as everyone says." "Are you engaged?" I asked. "Not yet," was the answer. But if they're not engaged there's an understanding, and I don't know of any romance in Hollywood that strikes me as being nicer—they're both such charming young people.

GENE AUTRY'S SUIT to break his Republic contract comes up in the Los Angeles courts in the next 60 days. Of course, nobody ever knows how those contract battles will come out, but this much I do know—if Gene gets his freedom he will set up his own independent productions and boss his own films. With Autry's popularity with the kids he could take his choice of nearly any major release. But there's another angle to be considered, too. Olivia De Havilland and Robert Cummings won similar battles, but neither has appeared in a film on the outside.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: The Jack Carsons await the second visit of the long-legged bird; Maureen O'Hara has put on at least 20 pounds since the birth of her baby. She now has the "joy" of taking it off; Richard Smart, whose family owns the largest plantation in Honolulu, has disappeared and his socialite wife, Pat Monteagle, hasn't heard from him in months; if it isn't love with Lana Turner and Turhan Bey it looks an awful lot like it. Sat next to them at dinner the other night and they held hands from soup to dessert; talk is that Jack Topping will settle a million dollars on his bride, Lois Andrews, before they are married; there is no longer the slightest hope of a reconciliation between Barbara Hutton and Cary Grant; Betty Hutton did a Girl Scout deed before she left for the East. She dropped in to see Sgt. Gordon Maynard, who thinks she's the most beautiful woman in the world. Betty was accompanied by Mervyn Le Roy, who consented to take a back seat while Gordon looked into her eyes; Jane Withers is selling her California home because she expects to be in New York a year. She goes into "Glad to See You" and when she returns here, she and her mother and father will take a small apartment; Bing Crosby remained in New York for ten days after he went there for the Army; Russell Crouse and Howard Lindsey took off for New York Saturday.

How to Protect Garden Soil

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of Vegetable Garden Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of the Boston Daily Record-American and Sunday Advertiser Demonstration Garden on Boston Common.

Just because some crops have been harvested and others are making daily yields, it is no time to rest on your hoe and let the weeds take complete charge.

If you do not plan to grow late crops you should plan to at least plant a cover crop to protect the soil from erosion and keep down weeds. At this season of the year one of the best crops to protect the land is rye-grass sown broadcast.

Cabbage that is maturing now will split unless you check it closely. You can extend the period of time for using this crop by reducing the root area. As soon as the heads are hard take a spade and cut down on one side of the plant to a depth of 4 to 6 inches. This cuts about half the roots and reduces the amount of water taken in by the plant.

A common disease of cabbage in this area known as club root is now showing up. This disease is common in all parts of New England and does considerable damage to all members of the cabbage family. The first symptoms of the disease are wilting during the daytime followed by a check in the growth. Infected plants have large swelling on the roots.

CONTROL. Once the crop is set in the field there is no practical control. Try to buy healthy plants and if you have trouble this year be sure to avoid planting cabbages on the same land next year. Once land becomes infected with the disease it is useless to try to grow cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower or turnip.

STOMACH AGONY?

UPSET STOMACH? SOUR TASTE IN MOUTH? GAS PAINS? INTESTINAL IRRITATIONS? ON A COLITIS OR ULCER DIET?*

Try FOR AMAZING RELIEF with FENUGREEK TEA

FENUGREEK TEA IS A NATURAL HERB—NOT A DRUG!

FENUGREEK is a natural herb that has given results to many when other methods seemingly failed. It has been said that FENUGREEK TEA is "A Cup of Good Health from the Good Earth."

A cup of this very pleasant tea is taken before meals (and upon retiring). This mixes with the food in one's stomach, thus helping to absorb by solvency, the poisons that may sometimes foster stomach troubles. It thus often acts quickly to stop gas pains, sourness and belching. Being a liquid mucus-solvent it naturally tends to flush out thick stagnant bile and also to assist flushing of kidneys. It is not a laxative!

If you are troubled with an excess mucus condition . . . if you cough up an embarrassing amount of catarrhal phlegm — if your stomach is upset as a result of too much mucus, you will certainly be interested in experimenting with FENUGREEK TEA to see if you can eliminate this condition. Many using it find it seems to offer wonderful relief.

FENUGREEK TEA helps flush out impurities which may have been inside you a long time. By helping to dissolve excess mucus, it can make your digestive organs feel sweet and clean.

*If your physician has placed you on an ulcer or colitis diet you'll enjoy the soothing effects of FENUGREEK TEA.

The stomach lining is a series of small pits. Impurities clog to these pits, often causing serious disorders. The regular use of Fenugreek Tea will very often help to cleanse these impurities.

work for Imford Press with Carl Kennistor.

And Sgt Peter Moorenovich of 46 Dover st., Portsmouth, N. H., a farmer, who gave an impromptu lecture on why the French get more produce per acre out of their fields. He says they know how to rotate their crops.

Lawrence B. Green of 41 Burnap st., Fitchburg, who is also serving a novitiate at the front, and who, by this second-hand means, sends his love to wife Elsie (Brown) and daughter, Cheryl.

And PFC John S. Polovitch of 27 Oolah ave., Norwood, who is back on duty after being healed of a slight elbow wound. "Twasn't so bad—just a kinda jolt and a numb feeling."

OFFICER IS B. U. GRAD

In a plentifully fertilized cowpasture I found Lt. Paul Parras of 136 Myrtle st., Manchester, a B. U. law graduate, who was giving his company a calisthenics drill.

And across a road there was Pvt. Antonio C. Simone of 248 Franklin st., Cambridge, the only son of mother, Joanne. He misses the confections he used to fabricate for Necco.

And Cpl John Lanzoni of 171 Neponset st., Norwood, who exhibited the shrapnel marks in his field telephone switchboard, and plans to rejoin dad, Anthony, in the family plastering business.

And PFC John Ruckstalis of 29 Austin st., Norwood, who has recovered from a slight scalp nick from shrapnel, and worked for Winslow Bros., as did also S-Sgt. Patrick F. McDonough of 338 Railroad ave., who, with what seems to be typical Norwood luck, also escaped with a harmless gouge in the neck from a sniper bullet (he's hale again).

And Cpl. Claude F. Sproule of 27 Belmont st., Quincy (two doors from the motor registry). He has a brother, Bill.

In the late evening, in the time of day called crepuscule by the French, and twilight by us, I went through the dead city of Vire, once a pleasant market town where the vintners came to sell their bottled sunlight called calvados, a potent liquor not unlike New England's applejack. This comes from hearsay. Me? I'm teetotal!

Nothing stirred in the streets, which were nothing more than traffic lanes between the masses of rubble. Its walls were bleak, smoke-smuttered husks. It stood silhouetted against the rosy sky, like the 400 A. D. ruins of Glendolough in early Christian Ireland, but without time's overlay of mellowed charm.

It was stark, ghostly realism. Where once lamplight had gleamed in a thousand windows, and children had peered for homecoming daddies, now the moon cast a sulphur light over total wreckage—an all-seeing eye in an indigo sky which has watched milleniums of man's folly, and might be marveling at this latter civilization's capacity for mischief.

N. E. MEN ALL ABOUT

Did I say that nothing stirred? A lean cat slunk over the jumble, leering back with eyes that reflected the moonglow. So I hurried through the stricken town to the outskirts and to an old U. S. bivouac, where a dugout sign read: "Through these portals pass the fattest mortals." But not any more!

I dismounted to ask road directions, hollering into the dark tunnels, "Hey!" and hearing my voice come echoing back in mocking pieces. "Hey, hey, hey." My driver said, "Waddy yah say. Let's monter notre jeep and aller to hell outa ici." With bi-language garble that the GI likes to affect as his daddies of that older AEF did before him.

There are Bostonians and New Englanders everywhere in France. Not in gobs, but in a fruit cake mixture, with 42 other states. And there's only one system to filter them out. You shove off to the infantry foxholes, the artillery pits, the command posts, or wherever there are clusters of men in mist gray jumpers.

Or you poke into a wayside mess tent and bawl: "Any Greater Boston men here?" That is where I met Sgt. Amerigo Garfagana of 25 Spruce st., Hingham, a first cook, who used to dish it up at the Brunswick and Westminster hotels, and his bosom chum, Pvt. Alan H. Forbes of 60 Amherst rd., Haverhill, a deputy cook, who worked for Wilfred Chagnon's Hubbard Pharmacy [illegible] Center) and is son of Dr. James Forbes.

And PFC John J. Regan of 6 Burke st., Waban, an MP, who was a novice cop for Chief Mike Hughes of the Newton force, and draws $16 a week from Uncle Sam for doing the same thing for which Newton paid him $45.

And Pvt. John S. Connolly of 1043 Hancock st., Quincy, a No. 1 cook for the MP's, who once strummed a bass viol for Freddy Marshi's ork.

And two brothers, who helped me make journalism quite painless by coming to my pup tent last night, where I sleep on top of a wagon rut—Cpls. Joe A., 22, and Wilfred (Buddy) McVeigh, 26, both of 100 Train st., Dorchester, near Neponset bridge.

They have had the unusual luck of being together since induction, except for the brief spell on D-Day when they came over in separate invasion barges, and met on the beachhead.

"Gee, I was worried for a couple of hours," said Buddy, with fraternal affection.

That's all tonight!

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—Guess Tommy Dorsey will have a new theme song: "Swingin' On A Star" . . . Can't recall the screen credits in "Dragon Seed," but the dialogue sounded as though every speech ought to have been preceded by "Confucius Say" . . . Marlene Dietrich always looks so cool, even when she looks so hot. Well, I know what I mean . . . Time to revive that decade-or-more ago "Paradise" ballad. What Russ Columbo used to do with it! I guess you are getting old when you remember Russ Columbo. It's like remembering when you could walk into a drug store and get Chanel No. 5 . . . Mervyn LeRoy's real love would make many a character give out with a double take . . . Never hear anyone say "I can get it for you wholesale" any more . . . Wonder what quirk of fate makes one zoom and one fall when two actor stars dissolve the marriage tie? Got lots of examples.

Marlene Dietrich

I'M WAITING to hear Artie Shaw's new 40-piece band. Where in the world is he getting all those side men? . . . Lots of girls wearing ballet slippers these nights. They look pretty on small feet, terrible on large ones . . . Hear Fred Allen and Walter Batchellor, his agent, will call it quits when the contract expires next season . . . Allen is my favorite radio comedian. I love to curl up on a sofa with a big apple and an Allen broadcast. He gives me waves of little mental chuckles . . . Wonder why cocker spaniels, all bundled up in their long fur coats, don't seem to mind the heat at all, the happy, sad-eyed little cuties . . . So Betty Smith is doing a play for Mike Todd about Mormons. And no tree in it at all. Hope they get Dean Jagger to play the lead; since the picture he's always been a Mormon to me.

★ ★ ★

AWFULLY TEMPTED to fry an egg on the pavement, but what would my doorman think? . . . Joe Marsala, the swingster, could pass for Frankie Hoy even without a bow tie . . . Lot of people lately shilling for a drink composed of Irish whisky and soda. Sounds ugh to me, but they say it's terrific . . . Singer Johnnie Johnston can run four racks, so I guess that makes him the best of the theatrical pool players. Old Bill Robinson is mean with the cue, too, I've heard . . . 'Walson" is an excellent picture, but I don't think it's a great picture. My idea of a great picture was "Here Comes Mr. Jordan" . . . Saw 18 fellows yum-yumming over lamb stew at Toots Shor's yesterday. Makes me stew to think of it . . . So a newspaper girl will be picked by Rudy Vallee to give forth with the gossip on his new radio show. Isn't he the lad who said he hated gossip columnists?

THOUGHT THIS presidential campaign would be full of fireworks, but not even a respectable pin wheel so far. The boys on both sides must be waiting to see the whites of somebody's eyes. Up to now, the commentators, columnists, editorial scribes letters-to-the-editor writers and innocent bystanders have gotten more exercise than the contestants . . . Wonder if it's true Tallulah has gone off the wagon. That must be a sign she considers the war is won . . . Too had about that radio agency head. Nervous breakdown is the doctors' verdict. Time for that old cliche, you can't take it with you.

SNIFF—ME SMELL BEAR TRACKS! SNIFF—BEAR GO UM ALONG HERE THREE HOURS AGO!—HIM WEIGH ABOUT 200 POUNDS,—MAKE HEAP GOOD STEAKS FOR RANCH HOUSE—SOON WE GET UM!
LET'S LEAVE HIM ALONE, AN' HUNT FER BERRIES,—IT WON'T HOIT DA BUSH!
I TOOK ALL DA BULLETS OUTA HIS GUN!
IS IT A BROWN OR BLACK BEAR, CHIEF?

Star Shine

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 21—Barbara Stanwyck in "Double Indemnity" wears a sweater, schemes to kill a man and shoot another.

"How did you ever get away with that role?" she was asked.

"Easy. No objections. The story proves that crime doesn't pay."

"But the sweater. The sweater! How did the Hays Office ever let that get by?"

"What's wrong with it? The picture is very moral. It's anti-crime and anti-sweater. It shows what happens if you fall for a girl who wears a sweater."

Barbara Stanwyck

Director Billy Wilder selected her for this role of the hard-boiled dame, and she grabbed the chance. She didn't object to wearing a blonde wig or any of the other props used to portray a cheap dame. She's a trouper.

She started in theatricals in a third school. She was a chorine in the floor show at the Strand Roof. Then her name was Ruby Stevens.

She is 5 feet, 3 inches tall, has blue eyes and auburn hair. She has weighed as much as 125 pounds and now weighs 110. She hates make-up and wears only lipstick for street and evening wear.

BARBARA HAILS from Brooklyn. Her birthday is July 16, 1907. She still tries to be herself. She loathes big parties for they recall those early years in Hollywood when she was snubbed by executives' wives. She hates a liar and never trusts a person a second time who fails her a first time. She loathes movie stars who like to be, as she expresses it, "queenes."

Once at a small party a well known leading man was boring everyone with his discussions of literature. After five minutes she interrupted with "Aw nuts!" After the bore had stopped, she arose and said, "I'm leaving, you may go ahead now." She walked out of the room.

As Mrs. Robert Taylor she now resides in a small cottage in Beverly Hills. When Taylor went into the Navy they sold their big house. The house is neatly furnished. She has struck an attitude about the furniture. She refuses to have any furniture in the house that "people can't put their feet on."

TAYLOR IS NOW a lieutenant. She is a devoted wife. When she learns that he is coming home in two weeks on leave, she gets excited and can hardly wait.

She studies her scripts at home and knows her lines and what the role calls for when she comes on the set. She is not temperamental, generally doing her arguing before the picture starts. She never misses a line.

Her morning ritual is to drink four glasses of water upon rising. She then takes a hot and cold shower. She brushes her hair for 10 minutes every morning. Since she rises early and works hard, she insists on a large breakfast, which keeps her going most of the day. When she is working she has luncheon in her dressing room and then lies down for 15 minutes before returning to the set.

"But don't you want me to be beautiful, dear?"

George Holland

Boston After Dark

IN THE BAR OF a resort-town not 20 miles from Boston, a real human interest feature is intriguing the customers . . . A character emerges from someplace and proceeds to bang the badly-tuned, cheap and raspy piano . . . He wears an old slouch-hat – keeping it on while he plays, and a colored working shirt.

The piano begins to give out a series of old "torchers," such as "I Had a Dream, Dear," "In the Evening by the Moonlight," "By the Old Millstream" and the like . . . The piano-player asks for no requests, and answers none if he gets it . . . He plays on, apparently intent on wheedling tunes he enjoys himself from the mechanical-sounding box.

★ ★ ★

BUT HE PLAYS no "jive" . . . His repertory is all "from schmalz" tas the musicians call it when they talk of "sweet" music among themselves! . . . And in the "schmalz" is a cue to the piano-player's presence in this beer joint where he is known only as "The Maestro" . . . "The Maestro" never liked jive, and refused to accept its growing popularity . . . Barrel-house, blues, jazz or jive in any form, he scorned . . . That—and John Barleycorn accounts for the gift to the bar-flies of a talented musician who plays for his daily quota of beers.

★ ★ ★

SAMMY WALSH, the local comedian who bills himself " - of the Back Bay Walshes," recently returned to Boston after an eight-month jaunt with front-line entertainment units . . . In fact, Sammy has one of the outstanding camp show records . . . He has flown some 100,000 miles and has made countless thousands of soldiers laugh . . . Some of the countries whose money is represented in Sammy's "short snorter" bill haven't even figured in the war news . . . In the Pacific war zone, Comedian Walsh met Lt. Albert Cole, former mayor of Lynn.

IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC he met Gen. MacArthur, and traveling west from that meeting, generals who signed the "short snorter" in order after the MacArthur meeting were Eisenhower, Doolittle, Swift and Arnold . . . Hospital conditions are excellent in the Southwest Pacific, according to Sammy . . . Morale is high.

A ROBOT BOMB scored a direct hit on Warners' studio at Teddington, near London, and three studio employes were killed . . . Irony was present in large dimensions . . . A night or two before the tragedy, "Doc" Salomon, one of the victims, and manager of the studio, had recorded the sound-track of a flying bomb, and the result had been broadcast to America . . . Mike Sacco, faithful star of the burlesque circuit in spite of the defection (to the movies or legitimate) of comedic-mates like Abbott and Costello, Rags Ragland, and Red Marshall, will be starred in the Old Howard's re-opening show Friday night.

SPEAKING OF BURLESQUE, the summer's most spectacular femme around the nightclub beat is none other than Lois De Fee, the towering stripeuse who once married a midget at the behest of the press-agent of the Old Howard or the Globe (or both) . . . La Lois may not have been spoofing completely when she married the Lilliputian inasmuch as her current choice in a man is a jockey . . . The jockey is Don Meade, most publicized of the "monkey men."

★ ★ ★

WITH MISS DE FEE and another interesting couple comprising Mary Kirk Brown and Roy Sedley, the comedian, Jockey Meade has been putting New York to bed over a period of weeks . . . But the rider makes the race-track for a morning gallop, and reports faithfully to the jocks' room on time . . . And besides, to the consternation of his detractors and the mournful head-shakings of his friends, Meade is riding in better form than ever . . . The Meade-De Fee-Brown-Sedley quartet is a fun-loving group of beings, from stories reaching this corner . . . Sedley, who was a good comedian when he was beguiling stayer-uppers at Club 18 in Swing Street, is making a pretense of being Jockey Meade's valet . . . When guests are received at the Meade suite, Sedley—playing his butler's role beautifully—greets them, stows their belongings and serves them refreshments . . . Oh, well! It's hot!

Doorbell Army To Aid Dewey

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—An Army of 1,000,000 men and women will begin an intensive doorbell-ringing, stair-climbing drive to elect Gov. Thomas E. Dewey president.

Recruited from the ranks of young Republicans and independent voters, these volunteers will stage what may prove the greatest political blitz ever seen in this country, matching with manpower the dollar power being assembled by Sidney Hillman's CIO Political Action Committee.

Planning and executing the Republican campaign is the job of GOP National Chairman Brownell. This army, called the Brownell Volunteers is the secret weapon on which the Republicans are counting heavily for victory.

Mystery Fire Destroys Home

TAUNTON, Aug. 21 — Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the residence of Bion L. Pierce, treasurer of the Pierce Hardware Co. of Taunton, in a spectacular night blaze in nearby Myricks.

The Myricks volunteer fire department, unable to cope with the flames, sent to Taunton for help but the fire in the house and adjoining garage had raged out of control before the city apparatus arrived.

Taunton officials said the fire apparently started in the garage, spread quickly to the house. The Pierce family fled in night clothes and sought shelter at the home of a neighbor.

"I wuz thinkin'...."

by Izzy Ort

Don't know which is hotter lately, the weather or the war news, but you know which one I hope will keep up. That little p a p erhanger with the Four Front Itch is havin' his troubles, too, boz where he is the heat is really on . . . Our boys are surely doin' a job over there, teaching the original blitz bugs how to blitz in a big way. We owe our kids a lot, but we kin pay 'em off best by buying War Bonds and more War Bonds NOW, instead of waitin' till they git back before showin' our gratitude. Ain't it funny, tho, how such an advantageous investment as War Bonds has to be SOLD to the public as a patriotic gesture? When you read about how many people could buy more Bonds, but haven't, it makes you realize how doggone right that guy Barnum wuz . . . Ya kno, I hate to git on setch a horrible subject as bizness but it's been a long time since I told you about the way service men and gals and defense workers on swing shifts flock to me Grille in the afternoon to git a taste of music and entertainment. It's really a favorite spot. Yers trooly wuz shure surprised last week when who drops in but me old fren, "Shanghai," right off a Merchant Mariner jess back from across, but took time out to bring me a couple swell souvenirs. Shipyard Film At Para-Fen

The Paramount and Fenway will have another first-run double feature bill on Thursday.

"Man From Frisco," action story of a two-fisted genius who revolutionized the shipbuilding industry, starring Michael O'Shea, Anne Shirley, and Gene Lockhart, will divide the program with "Louisiana Hayride," tune-filled jamboree, starring Judy Canova with Ross Hunter and Richard Lane.

"Man From Frisco" shows the conflict between tradition and the fabulous ideas of the present. Michael O'Shea is cast as a tough, young engineer who, armed with blueprints and an idea, strides rough-shod over traditions. Anne Shirley portrays a girl torn between the old customs of her father, Gene Lockhart, and the prodigious plans of the man she loves.

Melodrama on Wilbur Stage

A melodrama about a group of women in a spirited fight for their rights will launch Boston's new theater season with the arrival of "Last Stop" at the Wilbur tonight.

Written by Irving Kaye Davis and presented by Victor Hugo-Vidal, "Last Stop" will remain only a week at the Wilbur.

Minnie Dupree, Catharine Calhoun Doucet, Enid Markey, Seth Arnold, Grace Valentine and Edna Heineman head a cast of 23. The play was directed by Erwin Piscator.

Mr. Davis tells a story of worthy folk meeting villains head on. The good folk are a group of women gathered in a home, their haven either by choice or circumstance. They are happy in the home itself, which is the one-time mansion of a family whose fortunes have vanished. Selfish interests think to trade on the gullibility of the girls" and transfer them to a home less to their liking.

But the women find a voice in Mrs. Haines (Minnie Dupree). With the doughty Mrs. Fitzpatrick as an aide, she organizes a rebellion. The fight is to the finish — the women gloriously victorious.

Betty Linley, the new Mother Day of "Life With Father," coming to the Colonial August 28, has been lured back to the stage after an absence of 10 years, when she retired at the height of her career, which included roles with John Drew, Leslie Carter, Margaret Anglin and Mrs. Fiske.

King Credits Public As Auto Deaths Drop

Motor Vehicle Registrar Rudolph F. King today credited close co-operation between the public and enforcement officials for last week's safety record in which only two automobile deaths were reported.

The week's toll was the lowest since February, 1943, and seven fewer than last week.

SMART AND GOOD-LOOKING is this one-piece dress with the costume look . . . its black crepe background dramatically accented with a set-in front of red crepe striped with black braid. Finds Mother Years Later

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

When I was two years of age I was kidnaped by my father and taken to another state and never knew my mother till lately. Father had an uncontested divorce and married immediately. I have two half-sisters and one brother. I was the drudge of the family and bossed to the limit by my stepmother and her children.

Recently I met my mother, a charming woman, pretty, intelligent, who had spent a fortune trying to trace me. She is married to a very splendid man. I'd like to pay back to my mother some of the money she spent trying to find me, and I wish to take out a certain amount of life insurance payable to her before I go overseas.

When my stepmother heard of this she hit the ceiling, claiming she had been a mother to me since I was two years of age and was entitled to all benefits. I was just an unpaid servant and a brutally treated one in my stepmother's home. My father has since died, and, as my stepmother has three able-bodied children, I see no reason why I should take out either an allotment or insurance for her. Am I obliged to make an allowance to my stepmother?

S. D. G.

You're not obliged to make an allowance to your stepmother. As the question of insurance to your mother, whom you never met until lately, presents a new angle, better inquire of your legal assistance officer, telling him the complete story as you have told me.

Beauty

Healthy Skin Aids Its Own Cleansing

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

EMOLLIENT CREAMS are necessary for anyone who's out of her teens. That soft skin on your body is kept soft . . . chiefly because it's so well protected from the extremes . . . exposure and dirt included. But your face and neck and hands can't compete with the hothouse pampering that convention has managed for the skin on your body.

But, you can give these exposed surfaces a lot of artificial help to preserve the youthful suppleness of the skin. Remember you are fighting the million tiny lines that dryness can bring . . . a condition which most New England women are prone to because of the peculiarity of our climate.

Cleansing cream can only remove surface dirt. You can't expect it to reach down and clean out pores that have been allowed to clog through long neglect. A stimulated, active, healthy clean skin actually helps in its own cleansing.

A very dry skin needs a rich emollient creaming thrice daily . . . while you take your tub in the morning . . . while you dress in the evening . . . and a thin layer when you retire at night. A normal skin can very well use one 20-minute period of rich creaming each day. And even an oily skin needs some sort of special emollient . . . to counteract coarseness . . . and besides there are almost surely SOME dry patches on it.

For the name of this superfine cream, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A SOFT, LUSTROUS SKIN hasn't that dowager look . . . and is a necessary asset to that youthful appearance . . . something which every gal craves from 20 to 60. Retain facial youth with a superfine cream that has proven a defense against ageing lines and the betraying effects of time . . . and have a complexion as alluring as Warner Star Irene Manning's.

Home Canners Are Advised To Minimize Food Waste

By MARTHA LEE

HOME-CANNING IS MORE important this year than ever before, because of the increasing demands of our government for commercially packed foods.

Here's a quick quiz in which specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture list 12 questions. "Yes" answers down the line should be the goal of every home canner.

1—Do you avoid oven canning, because of hazards of jars exploding?

2—Do you inspect jars to be sure there are no cracks, bubbles, or other defects? These are danger spots where the jars may give way later and break.

3—Do you try out jar tops, making sure you know how to adjust the kind you have correctly? Some types require looser adjustment than others and steam will build up in them and they break, if too tight during canning.

4—If you are using the 3-piece type of jar top, do you take care to leave enough "give" to allow air in the jar to escape during canning? With this type, the metal screw band must be screwed down over glass lid and top-seat rubber so loosely that the threads are just meshed in enough to hold top in place during canning.

5—Do you avoid burns on your hands by picking up hot jars with a thick cloth or good, strong tongs?

6—Do you turn saucepan handles so they don't come out over stove edge?

7—Do you watch a boiling water bath canner, so it doesn't boil over and maybe put out a gas flame?

8—Do you make sure a steam pressure gauge is clear and clean, so that steam can escape from pet cock freely?

9—Do you make sure you have enough water in a steam pressure canner, so it won't boil dry?

10—Do you slide any canner away from heat rather than lift a hot, heavy container?

11—Before opening a steam pressure canner, do you let pressure drop to zero, wait a minute or two, then open the pet cock slowly?

12—When lifting a steam pressure canner lid, do you tilt the far side up to protect you from escaping steam?

An information service that will enable homemakers to carry on their wartime roles as home canners to safeguard the nation's food supply has been made available by the A & P Food Stores. Mr. E. M. Muldoon, director of sales for the New England Division of this company, has announced that this service consists of free leaflets containing easy-to-follow recipes and approved methods of canning fresh fruits and vegetables.

News of the time crops of both fresh fruits and vegetables are most abundant and canning conditions favorable also will be furnished in A & P stores. Canning at such favorable periods will permit savings in family budgets as well as point values.

Summer Squash

Wash, precook 3 to 5 minutes. Pack. Fill to within ½ inch of top with water in which vegetable was precooked or boiling water. Add 1 teaspoonful salt if desired to each quart jar. Put on can, and adjust according to type used. Process for 180 minutes in hot water bath, or 60 minutes in pressure cooker at 10 pounds pressure.

Lima Beans

Wash, shell and place in a pan with just enough boiling water to cover. Precook for 3 minutes. Pack to within 1 inch of top into clean jars. Add ½ teaspoon salt to each pint jar if desired, fill to within ½ inch of top with water in which vegetable was precooked or boiling water and put on cap, and adjust according to type used. Process 180 minutes in hot water bath, or 55 minutes in pressure cooker at 10 pounds pressure.

Plums (Cold Pack)

Select plums not too ripe; wash and prick the skin with needle to prevent bursting. Pack into clean jars and fill to within 1¼ inches of top with heavy syrup. Put on cap and adjust according to type used. Process for 20 minutes in hot water bath.

Heavy Syrup

Use one part of water or fruit juice to one part of sugar and bring to a boil.

The Correct Thing

BE TACTFUL, PLEASE—It's correct to ask to see an engaged girl's ring if you know she has one. It is bad form, however, to ask if she is going to get one or why she has no ring!

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Sunday — I have been receiving letters lately on the subject of the value of a year of military service for our boys after the war. From what I read in the papers and get in the mail, I think there is some confusion in people's minds. Some are thinking about the immediate situation in the year or two right after the close of hostilities. Others are thinking about a permanent program.

Let us take the first consideration. There will be, when war ends, a good many men in training who have never been overseas. There will be need for a number of men to act as a police force, or as occupation troops, in different parts of the world, for varying periods. The men who have been fighting, and who have lived in remote places for months or years, are going to want to come home quickly.

* * *

IT MIGHT BE possible, on a volunteer basis, to get enough young men who have never been overseas, to take the places of these veterans. It would give many young men a chance to see the world.

The second consideration can again be divided. One group asks only that all young men be trained for a year in some military service. Others feel that one year is hardly adequate to train a man completely in any branch of our highly mechanized services.

Some feel we should aim at getting our young citizens in good physical condition through two or three months of basic training, and then use the rest of the time as a period of education in democratic citizenship. This will permit them to perform some service for the community in which they spend their time.

* * *

I WAS RECENTLY given a copy of "What's New in Home Economics," a magazine published for the teachers of the subject. I was interested to learn that 29,000 high schools, as well as colleges and universities, teach this subject.

A large number of them are taking time to conduct adult classes afternoons and evenings, and are making of themselves information centers for their communities.

My only fear is that the courses are not as thorough as they should be.

Dutch Boy for Girls

By BETTINA BEDWELL

CLAIRE McCARDELL introduces a new kind of suit for September, a suit angled to the tastes of college girls. It is the "Dutch Boy" bolero suit, and you can see it in our sketch. The jacket does look a lot like the kind of thing Dutch boys have worn for ages. Theirs are weskits and shirts but this is a jacket, with the body of brown jersey and the sleeves of black jersey to make it look like its model. Narrow smoked pearl buttons fasten this jacket up the front.

A black jersey skirt is the lower half of the suit, and there is a beige and brown jersey sweater blouse to complete the costume.

Marine Under Fire Saves 9 Wounded

Heroic rescue by Marine Cpl. Robert D. Norton of Hanover st., Manchester, of nine wounded comrades on Guam was told today in dispatches from that Pacific outpost.

When his captain ordered him to take a squad to bring in the wounded, Norton argued that one man might escape detection and do the job better. Although he knew watchful Japs were covering the area with machine gun fire, he volunteered for the job. Some he carried and others he dragged, but he got them all back.

Heavy Weight Helps to Stop Horses in Stakes

By JACK CONWAY

THE DEFEAT of Kewey Dee and Mintlock at Narragansett Park on Saturday and the downfall of Devil Diver and First Fiddle in New York once more raise the question whether it is wise for racing secretaries to keep packing weight on a horse until he is stopped. There is an old race track expression to the effect one can stop a locomotive if you make it carry sufficient weight.

As Paper Mill with 112 pounds came along to toss Dewey Dee, carrying 122 pounds, for a loss and Swiv 111 pounds upset Mintlock with 126 pounds and Sollure with a heavy impost of 130 pounds, the noble breed of bettors lost thousands of dollars backing the favorites. The same conditions existed for the first four days of last week.

Babe Rubenstein

With cool weather, Narragansett will go shooting for a $2,000,000 handle on Labor Day. Narrangansett has a better chance than any New England track of reaching this goal.

Two million dollar handles have been quite common in New York. It is not uncommon for hundreds of people to be shut out at the $100 and $50 windows at New York tracks. There are more big bettors at Narragansett Park than at any of the other New England tracks which gives it the rail in the bid for a $2,000,000 handle.

* * *

Ransport an ex-boxer

KEITH RANSPORT, pho will play end for the Yanks this year, did some boxing after he graduated from Southern Methodist where he was an All-America, playing in the Rose Bowl game. Ransport engaged in 20 pro bouts after a successful amateur career. He only lost three bouts.

Jim Jeffries, former heavyweight champion, was among those persons who thought Ransport could have made good in the ring if he had not turned to professional football.

"I decided I had started in the boxing game too late," said Ranspot. "I was 21 years of age when I engaged in my first bout. For the average person to succeed in boxing, he must start when he is in his 'teens. He is then a hungry fighter and does better in competition."

This is why smart bettors will not back a horse after he has won two races. They feel the conditions of the race make it difficult for him to win. In the case of Mintlock, he had won his previous race at Narragansett Park, while he had scored two wins at Rockingham Park.

The ambition of every racing secretary is to make every handicap a blanket finish. The horses that have been winning are slowed down by extra weight, while the load is lightened on those horses that have not been parading to the winner's circle. I sometimes feel that this practice is carried to the extreme and as a result the better horse in the race has a great deal of percentage running against him.

Other than for a limited number of Racing Secretaries who take delight in beating the top horse in the betting, most secretaries merely follow out-of-date rules which call for additional weight under certain circumstances and lighter imposts in other cases.

I am not writing about those owners and trainers who boldly tell the management of a race track they will ship their horse for a certain race only if they can name their own weight. It is well for the best interests of racing that this group is not as successful as it would like to be.

The matter of alloting weights is antiquated and could stand considerable improvement. The public betting on the so-called solid horse is entitled to more of a run for his money. When Mintlock was beaten by Paper Mill, there was $33,449 burned up on Charley Ruff's thoroughbred.

While Babe Rubenstein was announcing over the radio that Paper Mill had won the $5000 added Newport Stakes at Narragansett Park, a New York broadcaster was telling his listeners that Paper Boy had beaten Devil Diver and First Fiddle. Paper Mill and Paper Boy would have been quite a parlay. Incidentally Babe is on the air with the first and fifth races from Narragansett Park each day.

Dave Komie, handicapper for the Green Race Special of the Boston American, had an idea some horse might get up to beat Mintlock or Sollure. So he made a $25 bet with a Loresman at even money that Mintlock would beat Sollure which, of course, he did. Sollure showed an abundance of early speed, but the weight of 130 pounds was too much for him.

Cool weather helpful

A MILLION dollar handle returned to Narragansett Park on Saturday with cool weather prevailing. It is unlikely that the Rhode Island track will encounter as warm weather during the remainder of its meeting as it did

Tiger Catcher Nails Snuffy

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—Paul Richards of the Detroit Tigers is the only catcher to have halted the base-stealing of George (Snuffy) Stirnweiss of the New York Yankees on two occasions this year. Stirnweiss, who has been successful in 38 of 42 attempts, was nabbed in the first inning of yesterday's first game but came back later for a clean swipe of second.

Buddy Rosar of the Cleveland Indians and Frankie Hayes of the Philadelphia Athletics have stopped Stirnweiss once each.

Browns Cracking as Red Sox Put on Tough Surge

By BILL GRIMES

Three and one-half games out of first place, the Red Sox have two more games to play with the Cleveland Indians before they take to the road this week to battle the Athletics and Yankees.

The Clonimen unleashed one of their most powerful offenses of the season against the Indians yesterday at Fenway Park. Although they were forced to play out the string in the opening game, the Sox took an 8 to 6 decision and then, due to a six run first frame, they had everything their own way in the nightcap.

The Indians are just going through the motions of playing big league ball. Since they left home, Cleveland has played in St. Louis, Chicago and the four Atlantic coastline cities. They have been in 20 games on this trip and of those 20 they have dropped no less than 16.

Manager Joe Cronin is anxious to make a clean sweep of this series. He had planned to use Clem Hausmann this afternoon, but the little right-hand pitcher ate something Saturday night that upset his stomach. In the event that Hausmann does not feel up to pitching today George "Pinky" Woods will receive the nod from Joe Cronin.

Neither Hausmann nor Woods has been effective of late, but they are the only pitchers available.

Manager Lou Boudreau will send his old pal, Jim Bagby, after the Red Sox today. Bagby sat out the first half of the season and since he rejoined the club he has turned in one win and has been charged with four losses.

But, for the fact that they lost "Tex" Hughson and will soon be deprived of the services of Hal Wagner and probably Bobby Doerr, Leon Culberson, Jim Tabor and Bill Conroy, the Red Sox could breeze through to the pennant.

The Browns were ready to crack when they were here but the Sox wouldn't let them. Then, the Athletics knocked them off three times in four games and yesterday the Senators took a twin-bill from them.

Jimmy Herbert Sets Two Marks

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 21 (AP)—Jim Herbert, 30-year-old former National AAU 600-yard indoor champion, set two of the four Niagara district AAU records established yesterday in the uniformed Firemen's Ass'n track and field meet.

Herbert, representing Grand Street Boys' AA, ran the 500-meter event in 1:03.5 to clip five-tenths of a second off Charlie Beetham's district mark set in 1939 at the Erie Club games.

Ed Petorella, Rhode Island State College's New England intercollegiate 220-yard low hurdle champion, ran the 200-yard low hurdle event in 23.6 to break Frank Finger's record of 23.8 set in 1943 in the Erie Club games.

Casey Club Is Declared Champ

The over-zealousness of a couple of players on the Linehan Club of Dorchester, has deprived Boston of one of the best sport spectacles of the year—the final play-offs in the Boston Park League. Last night Bob Cusick, assistant to Bill Mullen, director of recreation in Boston, ordered the play-offs between the Linehan Club and the Dick Casey Club at an end. The Casey Club was awarded the season's championship.

The trouble had its inception in the first game of the series played Friday night when two of the Linehan players, disagreeing with an umpire's decision, are alleged to have bumped and jostled him. The umpire immediately forfeited the game to the Casey Club.

In an effort to create amicable relations once more so that the series might proceed, Assistant Director Bob Cusick labored all day yesterday trying to get the Linehan players in the mood to resume the series. Since both players had been suspended by Cusick for the remainder of the series, their teammates rallied to their support and refused to continue.

Cusick had only one alternative—he awarded the 1944 Park League championship to the Dick Casey Club.

This is a severe blow to Boston athletics. The Park League, under the direction of Bill Mullen, who is ill at his home, had become a model for community competition. So attractive and great, in fact, that other cities have adopted the same playground policy.

Hausmann May Not Be in Shape

Tom Yawkey should send Connie Mack a "cut" of yesterday's "gate" . . . If the Athletics hadn't taken three out of four from the Browns last week, the attendance yesterday would have been considerably under 26,895.

Rex Cecil did a Leon Erroll fall when he fouled one off his right instep in batting practise . . . Then, he retired to the dressing room for first aid treatment by Trainer Win Green . . . After eating soup on Saturday night—he can't be a Bostonian—Clem Hausmann reported to the "sick bay" yesterday with food poisoning.

Dickie Stack, who sold score cards and refreshments at both parks for the late Billy Delaney, before he enlisted in the Navy, is home on a 21-day leave after spending 33 months in the Pacific . . . He enlisted at the age of 18 and is eligible to wear eight major engagement stars.

Hoag loafed getting back to first when Pat Seerey flied to Johnson in the 5th and Bob's lightning throw almost doubled him up.

When "Skeeter" Newsome caught Keltner's pop up over by third base in the 4th, Bobby Doerr was right behind him.

Al Smith asked permission of Joe Cronin to wear a cotton mitt under his glove . . . He has eczema on his right hand . . . He should play 4-4-4 in the number pool today . . . He pitched four innings, gave up four hits and had four runs charged against him.

Jim Tabor got the shock of his life yesterday morning . . . When he awoke the clock in his bedroom read 2:30 . . . Jim thought he had missed three or four innings of the opening game . . . Then, he discovered that the clock had stopped during the night.

Bobby Doerr was credited with a two bagger when Hoag lost his ball in the sun in the 3rd.

Bob Johnson didn't move when Pat Seerey smacked one of Yank Terry's Sunday pitches over the screen in the 4th . . . He knew the ball was going out of the park, the moment Pat laid the wood to it.

After hitting one down the left field line that was foul by inches in the big 2nd, Leon Culberson waited on the next pitch and slapped a three bagger to right, scoring three runs.

12-Year-Old Girl Swim Sensation

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Her coach had gone to the National Swimming championships in Kansas City. The only girl who had beaten her in New England championship competition so far this season had also gone west seeking new honors. So there was only one thing for 12-year-old Louise Sherlock to do — bring another N.E.A.A.A.U. crown to the Olneyville Boys' Club, auxiliary, so that her two friends would be sure to get a peek at it.

So she did just that—taking home with her the Mayor Maurice J. Tobin trophy, half as big as herself, after whipping the field in the NEAAAU 880-yard senior free-style for women.

Three years ago, petite Miss Sherlock had her troubles keeping her head above the water. She joined the famous swimming club at Olneyville to take instructions from Joe Watmough. While she was still learning, Clara Lamore was showing her the way to the top by starting her bids for prominence in New England circles.

Now, Miss Lamore has moved into national competition, leaving Miss Sherlock to defend Olneyville's laurels in local circles. It seems that she couldn't have picked a more capable successor.

Miss Sherlock's triumph in the half-mile grind was well deserved. She set the pace from the very start in spite of the fact that she had injured her foot and at the end, she was sailing home in her favorite crawl after Dorothy Kendrick of the Metropolitan Swimming Club had collided with another swimmer on the final lap.

SHE'S THE WONDER GIRL

Previously this season, Miss Sherlock had captured the New England AAAU junior 165-yard medley; the NEAAAU junior 100-yard free-style and the NEAAAU junior 100-yard free-style championships. Earlier yesterday on the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser-Boston Park Department meet held at Carson Beach, South Boston, she had romped home in the 50-meters free-style test for 12 and 13-year-old girls.

Miss Sherlock was the only double winner on the 15-event program, witnessed by over 8000 fans, although the Senior and McGowan families had twin prizes to show for their efforts.

Jean Senior of the Wanskuck Boys' Club auxiliary took over the Record - American - Advertiser medal in the 50-meters free-style for 10-11-year olders while Marion Senior, of the same Providence club, captured the NEAAAU 100-meters breaststroke crown. Paul McGowan took the boys' division of the 50-meters free-style for 10-11-year olders while Thomas McGowan won the 12-13-year-old meeting, both swimming for the Winchester club.

Other NEAAU championships went to Edward Nista, Wanskuck, in the 100-meters backstroke and Marjorie Lehman, Haverhill, N. H., in the junior 50-meters free-style

We Thank You

Many assisted in making the Record - American - Advertiser swim meet yesterday an overwhelming success.

Among those to whom we would like to offer our thanks include Col. Samuel Dennis, Capt. Louis Farrell, Arthur St. Germain and George Flowers of the Army Engineers; William P. Long, Bob Cusick and Tim Cummings of the Boston Park Department; Chief Spec. L. C. Riley of the U. S. N., and George Nichols, conductor of the American Legion Post 44 band of Roxbury.

Pauline Betz Tennis Queen

The throne no longer totters and the head that wears the crown no longer is weary for the Queen is more firmly entrenched as ruler of her domain than at any time during her two years' regime.

All this came about when Pauline Betz, the nation's number one tennis player, established herself as a rightful ruler of the lady racquet swingers by downing her most serious challenger in the Invitation Tourney that was just completed at the Longwood Cricket Club.

Other NEAAU championships went to Edward Nista, Wanskuck, in the 100-meters backstroke and Marjorie Lehman, Haverhill, N. H., in the junior 50-meters free-style
